failure to follow health directives

EWU and its community partners are taking an educational approach to helping students stay safe and healthy in response to COVID-19. We are committed to partnering with students to maintain a healthy environment both on campus and in our surrounding communities. However, EWU will hold students accountable through our established student conduct process when students either fail to respond to our educational approach or pose a significant health risk to our campus or our communities. Depending on the severity of the conduct infraction, lower levels of consequences may be skipped
