

Valerie Appleton Faculty Development Memorial Information
Awarded for July 1, 2024 – June 30, 2025

In 1991 Valerie Appleton joined the EWU community as an assistant professor in the Applied Psychology Department. She quickly advanced from Assistant to Full Professor, Program Director, Assistant Dean and finally in 2004, Dean of the College of Education & Human Development. Valerie served in that capacity until her untimely death in December 2005.

While at Eastern she was known for her sincerity, leadership, and ability to work with faculty, students, and staff across the university. Among her greatest strengths were creating partnerships with the K-12 system and bringing in extensive applied research grants such as the U.S. Department of Education Training All Teachers, bilingual counseling, and support projects.

Valerie valued education and faculty development. To honor Valerie's passion to better serve Eastern Washington University, the Valerie Appleton Faculty Development fund was established to be used for faculty development.
